Sinking Slowly.

Diseases that progress rapidly to a crisis are not the only ones to be dreaded. Canker or dry rot does not blast a tree as suddenly as a stroke of lightning, but unless arrested, it destroys it as certainly; and in like manner chronic debility, although it does not kill with the swiftness of yellow fever, is as sure to sap the springs of life eventually as any acute disease, if not checked by the swittness of yellow lever, is as sure to sap the optings of life eventually as any acute disease, if not checked by invigorating medication. There is something in the prescribe of prenature decay—Languer, paller, emaciation, depression of spirits, and a distaste for exertion, are its endinary symptoms, and they should be promptly met by toule treatment. The last invigorant and exhibitant that can be administered in a case of this kind is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—The stimulating principle of the preparation rouses the dormant energies of the system, and the strengthening and regulating properties give a permanent med healthful impulse to the vital forces thus brought into play. The failing appetite is re-awakened, the quality of the blood is improved, the servetions become more natural, and every organ that contributes to the nourishment of the bady undergoes salutary change. By these means the repair of the physical structure is effected and its health and vigor restored. In no class of diseases has the lenificent operation of the Bitters been more marked and striking than in those characterized by general debility and nervous prostration. Ladies affected with those allments find in this most wholeomo of all tonice and correctives the safest and surest means of relief. It is strong to restore and powerless to injure. Such is uniform testimony of "clouds of witnesses."
